

Ex-Convict Labor Official Bellows Smear at Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamster Robert (Barney) Baker denied today that he got any of the stolen $201,000 of Greenpeace kidnap ransom, or that he knows who did. He called it shocking that Senate investigators should put such a question.

"It is shocking to involve a man with that kind of blood-tainted money," the 300-pound unionist belated.

Baker styled himself the victim of "a vengeful woman, a scorned woman" in the testimony given Tuesday by his former wife, Mollie Baker, to the effect he once told her that Joseph Costello, a St. Louis taxi line operator, got the Greenpeace money.

And he laid to the same sort of spite the linking of his name and that of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

He said there was an effort to smear Harriman.

As for himself, Baker said "I'm a God fearing man" who is "afflicted with a bad memory and excessive fat about the heart."

Baker launched into an emotional, shouting tirade on taking the witness chair after convicted slayer or Ruth Brougher, 44, who identified herself as Baker's former sweetheart, joined his ex-wife in.

Returns Showing Johnson Winner

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Complete certified returns from the Aug. 12 Democratic primary show that segregationist Jim Johnson of Crossett won nomination to the Arkansas Supreme Court by 2,307 votes.

The official count was announced today by Frank E. Robbins Jr. of Conway, state Democratic secretary.

Johnson received a total of 142,927 votes and Justice Minor Milwee 140,820.

Two weeks earlier, the certified returns show, Gov. Orval Faubus won a third term nomination with a total of 264,346 votes. Chris Pinkbeiner of Little Rock had 60,173 and Chancellor Lee Ward of Paragould 59,385.

Corn, Cotton Growers Face New Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corn and cotton growers will face the problem of choosing within the next few months the government program under which they will operate if the farm bill passed by Congress becomes law.

Agriculture Department officials expect President Eisenhower to sign the bill. One official described it as the "biggest step toward freeing agriculture in 30 years."

For corn growers, the legislation would require a referendum in commercial producing areas, on or before Dec. 15. Department officials were said to be planning the vote for early December.

In this referendum corn growers would vote for the first time on whether they want to abolish all acreage allotments and base price supports on average prices, or retain the present program.

They would have a choice of:

1. No acreage allotments and a price support, based on 90 percent of the average price for a three-year period, but not less than 65 percent of parity, or
2. A program with allotments and a price support of 75 to 90 percent of parity. The exact figure would be set by the secretary of agriculture.

Parity is a legal standard demanded by farmers in relation to their costs.

The program chosen in such a referendum would apply to all corn growers.

Cotton growers, however, would make individual choices of either of two programs to last for the next two years.

This would involve choosing, before planting time next year, between overplanting cotton acreage allotments and taking a lower price support of 65 percent of parity, or of complying with allotments in return for a minimum of 80 percent price support in 1959 and 75 percent in 1960.

In the later case, government supports could go to a minimum of 70 percent in 1961. Afterward they would fall between 65 to 90 percent as set by the secretary.

Allotted cotton acreage would total 16 million acres next year under the new legislation. If the bill should not become law, the total would drop to an estimated 13½ million acres.

Befuddled Drake Has a New Love

EAST ORANGE, N. J. (AP) — The love affair of Charlie, the befuddled drake who is enamored of an emerald duck, may end in a custody battle.

Two owners today claimed they own Charlie, the persistent but near-sighted drake who's been trying since Sunday to pitch woo to a ceramic duck on the front lawn of the William Altvater.

Howard Mason, 74, broke up the on-again romance Tuesday when he claimed Charlie was his and had broken Charlie away from the bird quacking loudly all the way down the street. His darling, long three little ceramic ducklings, long since toppled over by Charlie's amorous advances, kept her glazed eyes front.

Then along came Miss Helen Mameo who said Charlie had escaped from her. She threatened a custody battle in court.

Dr. David O. Tudor, a poultry pathology expert at Rutgers University, said Charlie may have an adoption complex and found an outlet in the clay duck.

Dr. James Westman, head of the Rutgers wildlife conservation department, said Charlie either has a complex or he's a very stupid duck.

Not so, said Miss Mameo. "Charlie's not quite, he's just lonely."

SPOTLIGHT HAS SHIFTED — Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, shown during a press conference in Little Rock, has declined to call a special session of the legislature immediately. "The higher court's decision indicates indifference and disregard of the will of the people that is most alarming and dangerous," he said. The Governor added that he felt the spotlight had shifted over to school officials, the N. A. A. C. P. and the parents of the Negro children. — NEA Telephoto

Woman Admits Getting Loans From Official

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — A Shreveport woman yesterday testified in the embezzlement trial here of former Union County Treasurer Perry Long that he loaned money to her and also financed nightclub dates they had in Shreveport and Little Rock.

Miss Barbara Ann Bennett, a 26-year-old brunette who formerly lived here, said the suspended official loaned her "small sums between paydays" during the period he is alleged to have misused public funds.

The trial resumed today in Union Circuit Court.

Long, a legless World War II veteran, is accused of embezzling $22,538 from 1955 to 1958. A Union County Grand Jury indicted him on a felony count of misusing public funds.

Long maintained the money was taken from his office during a robbery April 16. He told police he was attacked from behind and bound and gagged while alone in the office.

He was removed from office after he was indicted June 9. Ten other persons testified in the trial yesterday.

One witness, Ira Craig, a used car dealer and friend of Long's, said he loaned the former official $1,000 on the day of the alleged robbery. He said Long told him he wanted the money to buy an interest in a river barge.

Craig testified he took as security for the loan the deeds to Long's house and a home owned by Long's parents. He said the money has not been repaid.

The auto dealer also said the ousted treasurer had made a down payment on a car for Miss Bennett.

Officials and employees of three El Dorado banks testified that Long had a number of notes outstanding at the banks, in amounts up to $550.

Testimony brought out that Long's income was about $775 a month at the time of the alleged robbery. Mrs. Pansy Bryant told the court Long received about $400 monthly as salary. And T. G. Morton of Little Rock, field examiner for the Veterans Administration, said the former official received about $375 monthly as full compensation for service connected disabilities.

One law set up the State Sovereignty Commission designed to "protect Arkansas from federal encroachment."

The other requires certain organizations, including the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to register with the Sovereignty Commission and make public reports on financing and other activities.

The ministers first asked U. S. District Court here for a declaratory ruling on the constitutionality of the act but a 3-judge court withheld an opinion pending action in the state courts.

Williams told newsmen that he had dismissed the suit with prejudice "so the only place for the plaintiffs to go now is the state Supreme Court and from there to the federal courts." With prejudice means that the suit may not be refilled in Williams' court.

The Sovereignty Commission as yet has not concerned itself with the Little Rock Central High School integration dispute. Faubus has only called it into a session and there will be delegates from 32

Ike Would Return U.S. Troops to Little Rock If It Becomes Necessary

Faubus, School Board to Talk Further Plans

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus and three Arkansas Legislative leaders will meet with the Little Rock School Board tonight to discuss the integration problem.

Faubus indicated that unless the board takes some action quickly to forestall the return of Negro pupils to central High School Sept. 2, the Legislature probably will be called into special session next week.

The governor took time out to comment on President Eisenhower's implied warning that federal troops might have to be used to enforce integration if circumstances warranted it.

"What Mr. Eisenhower and many others who express similar viewpoints fail to realize is that they are supporting a court decision which is not constitutional and there are millions of people in every section of the country who know it," Faubus said.

The meeting with the board was set up in a conversation between Supl. of Schools Virgil Blossom and the governor has been apparently critical of each other.

A coolness between the board and the governor has been apparent since last fall when Blossom blamed Faubus for much of the Central High trouble.

Faubus refused to be pinned down on an expected special session of the Legislature but did say only action of the board can prevent a special session and time is getting short.

Blossom said the board planned to ask the U. S. Supreme Court to intervene in the Little Rock case and would ask the St. Louis Appeals Court to stay its decision which wiped out a 2½-year delay in integration.

Before Tuesday night's board meeting, Faubus said his future actions depended on what the school board did. He said a special session of the Legislature, considered imminent as a result of the overturning of the integration

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today killed a bill to curb the review powers of the Supreme Court and to undo the effects of its decisions in several Communist cases.

Defeat of the bill came amid the hottest congressional controversy since the days of the New Deal when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt proposed his court revision plan.

House today passed a compromise bill appropriating $1,118,000,000 for water projects and other public works during the year which started July 1. The vote was 357-177.

The bill, drafted by a Senate House conference committee, compares with the original House bill total of $1,077,000,000 and a Senate total of $1,150,000,000. President Eisenhower had budgeted $1,077,000,000.

Russians to Demand Ban on Atom Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Soviet demands for an immediate ban on nuclear tests appeared likely today as a swift follow-up to tentative East-West agreement on a technical system to detect cheating.

The Soviet-Western agreement on means of setting up a global monitoring network came in several weeks of secret talks now drawing to an end in Geneva.

There was no effort by the 10 scientists from four Western and four Communist nations to reach any political decisions on whether there should be an agreement to halt nuclear testing.

However, American officials said the Kremlin can be expected to point to the Geneva agreement as committing the United States to end tests.

This interpretation has been rejected in advance by President Eisenhower.

The American position, as set forth in the past by Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, is that any agreement by East-West scientists might lead to suspension of testing, but that the United States refused to be bound in advance.

Pending a final report by scientists of both sides, State Department officials cautiously refused to appraise the significance of the Geneva agreement on a possible control system. Details of the agreement were not disclosed.

Some officials said they understood the key point in the agreement was a decision to recommend that nearly 200 monitoring stations be set up around the world. These would be on land, and on ships at sea. They would be equipped with electronic and other methods of recording any blasts.

While the scientists met in Switzerland, the United States has been conducting a series of nuclear tests in the Pacific. Britain is preparing for a new series of its own, also in the Pacific. The Soviet Union announced a halt in its own tests last March after finishing a series.

Says Americans Must Abide by Court Orders

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today that Americans have a solemn obligation to comply with federal court orders in the school integration controversy.

In a prepared statement at a news conference the President also said every state has a responsibility to support and obey such orders.

"Every American must understand," Eisenhower said, "that if an individual community or state is going successfully and continuously to defy the courts, then there is anarchy."

Without referring specifically to the explosive situation in Little Rock, Ark., or to other potential trouble areas, Eisenhower left no doubt his appeal was directed to those regions.

His comment came against the background of a federal appeals court's decision earlier this week that integration must be resumed in Little Rock. That decision set aside a federal court ruling in favor of a 2½-year delay.

In response to questions, Eisenhower refused to say whether he favors school integration.

He told newsmen that any expression on that issue would be wrong and would make his job more difficult with respect to his sworn duty to enforce the law.

After declining to express a view on the merits of the integration controversy, Eisenhower said "in its statement."

"This case, however, or any person's agreement or disagreement with its outcome, must not be confused with the solemn duty that all Americans have to comply with the final orders of the court."

Eisenhower then spoke of the responsibility and obligation of the individual states to suppress unlawful forces.

Speaking further regarding a state's obligation, Eisenhower said:

"It cannot by action or deliberate failure to act permit violence to frustrate the preservation of individual rights as determined by a court decree."

Without specifically saying so, Eisenhower indicated that under

Integration at Memphis State Studied

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The State Board of Education gets a report today on whether to permit Memphis State University to wait a year to desegregate despite a federal court order.

The board meets this afternoon amid speculation it might take no definite action on MSU President J. M. Smith's request for a year's delay in opening all levels of the school to Negroes. Several Negroes have passed Memphis State's entrance examinations.

Smith cited last year's trouble at Little Rock and the prominence of segregation in campaigns during the Tennessee Democratic primary this month as reasons for the request.

The Sixth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati ordered the school desegregated after throwing out a proposed state desegregation plan which had the approval of U. S. Dist. Judge Marion Boyd of Memphis.

That plan would have started desegregation at the graduate level and continued it one year at a time, through the freshman level.

After that order, the state school board permitted individual state colleges to adopt entrance requirements, including examinations, not based upon race.

Scotter, Truck Collide, Boy Killed

EARLE, Ark. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy was killed here late Monday when his motorcycle and a pickup truck collided.

State Trooper Willie Neighbors identified the dead boy as Raymond Howard Bowling of Earle. The trooper said the pickup was driven by Eddie Washington of Earle.

The accident happened on a county road four miles east of here.

Falling Boulders Kill Four Persons

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A woman and her two young sons were killed Monday by two-ton boulders from a dump truck that hurtled down a hill. The truck driver also died.

The woman's husband and daughter were injured. Both were reported in fair condition at a hospital.

One boulder smashed the automobile of Harry Jacobs, 31. Two others crushed his wife Estelle, 31. She was thrown from the car when it was struck by the truck, police said.

It was not determined what went wrong with the truck. There were indications the driver had attempted to apply the brakes.

The truck careened off its auto, then skidded on its side and jammed between a telephone pole and an iron utility pole. Albert Stoebe, 40, of Carthage, died in the smashed car.

Jacobs, his two sons, Robert, 6, and Scott, 1, and his daughter, Bonnie, 4, were trapped in the car. Rescuers used cranes and jacks to free them.

Capt. James Cook made the first English explorations on the coast of Alaska in 1776.

DOROTHY DIX

Lucky Mother Raised
Three Considerate Girls

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Since my father's death three years ago my mother has been living alone, in a comfortable apartment. She does her own housework and baby-sits for the neighbors. She has worked hard all her life and we girls think it's time she took things easy. We are three married daughters, all comfortably off, and quite willing to contribute to mother's support. At present this isn't necessary since she was left a little money and earns a little. We do buy her clothes, and give her special treats and such. We want her to give up housekeeping and board with a neighbor. She definitely does not want to live with any of us. Our husbands all love her, but she maintains that instead of being a welcome guest she would just be a nuisance as a permanent fixture. Before we present the idea to her, we'd like your opinion. — Trio

Dear Girls: Your mother is a fortunate woman to have three daughters — not to mention sons-in-law — who are so solicitous for her welfare. Carry your program a bit further. Realize that she may not find happiness in the way you think best. She is an independent woman, with her own ideas, and should be allowed to carry them out in her own way. While she has her health, leave her alone. As she grows older, you might suggest having someone in to help with the work. Otherwise, don't push.

The U. S. Government Printing

Office — that source of information on all possible things — publishes a fine booklet on the care of the aged, "The Older Person in the Home." It may be obtained from the Public Health Service of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington 25, D. C., for twenty cents.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I'm 16 and like a girl the same age. A few months ago I was in a little trouble, and paid for it. Before that the girl's mother had no objection to our friendship but now if she even hears my name she blows a gasket. I'd do anything to square myself with the mother as I really and truly like the girl. — Freddie

Dear Freddie: Call on the mother someday when you know the girl is out and have a heart-to-heart talk with her. If you are really repentant and determined to avoid mistakes in the future, you can convince her. After all, you can't blame a mother for protecting a daughter's reputation.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
When Jay asked me for a date, I flipped. I was so happy. He's every girl's ideal — steady, generous, keen sense of humor and considerate. I was thrilled dating him until I met Ken. I honestly don't know much about Ken except that he's the man for me. He's never asked me for a date but whenever I'm out with Jay, I can't help wishing he were Ken. Ken has so many girls, and I'm fairly plain so I doubt if I have much chance with him. — Ellen P.

Dear Ellen: Be a sensible girl and stop hankering for the improbable. At one time or another, most of us have yearned for the stars but have willingly settled for the things on earth. You're suffering from a romantic crush on a very good-looking boy. Don't let it spoil a beautiful friendship.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
For several months I have been corresponding with a boy I have never met personally. Lately our letters have been getting serious and now I'm convinced that I love him. He has decided to move to this city in September and plans to stay with us until he finds work. My parents object to a "stranger" staying with us. Shall I encourage him to come in spite of my parents' objections or take their advice and break off our relationship? I might add that he has asked me to marry him. — Jewel

Dear Jewel: The parental objections are valid. The boy might come in September and not find work for six months — especially if your mother's meals are good. Bring your correspondence to a limber or break it off.

Dissenting Judge Is a Republican

ST. LOUIS (AP) Speak the name of Chief Justice Archibald R. Keeney and the name of the oldest active federal judge in the nation.

But yesterday the Hon. S. D. Keeney, 80, a Republican, spoke the name of the oldest active federal judge in the nation.

For he wrote the lone dissent as the 8th Circuit U. S. Court of Appeals reversed a district court judge and ruled racial segregation must be resumed at Central High School in Little Rock. The court split 6-1.

The judge, a small man, keen and quiet but occasionally explosive, was appointed to the court of appeals in 1929 in one of the last acts of President Calvin Coolidge. He became chief justice 11 years ago.

Toward the turn of the century the Iowa-born judge represented the Chicago and North Western Railway in a South Dakota condemnation suit that blossomed into a much discussed case.

The suit involved 1,500 acres of land and the owner asked $50,000, finally lowering the price to $24,000. The railroad would go $5,000 more—and the case went to trial.

The jury returned a verdict of $3,475,000 for the land owner.

The judge, married and the father of three children, received his law degree in 1893 from the University of Iowa. He practiced law in Missouri and South Dakota and was a state's attorney in South Dakota.

He's a Republican, a member of the Knights of Pythias and the Rotary Club.

He's also a highly regarded pheasant hunter. Every fall he dons hunting togs and takes charge of a band of Hunon associates known through the years as "Gardner's Guerrillas."

Judge Gardner's court dealt with the Little Rock case three times previously and each time ruled in favor of integration.

Air Force Planning Second Moon Try

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The first disappointing failure was all but forgotten today as the Air Force pushed ahead with ambitious plans for the next attempt to shoot the moon.

Two days after the first massive U.S. moon rocket exploded 77 seconds after launching, there still was no official announcement on the exact cause.

Diverted continued to probe 60 feet in the Atlantic to recover the splintered remains of the first-stage Thor missile 10 miles from the cape.

Moon project officers looked forward to their next try, which probably will come between Sept. 14-17. That is when the moon again will be closest to the earth.

REVEALED

As observed with the naked eye, there are seven stars in the Pleiades group, but a large telescope reveals more than 200 stars in the cluster.
